How do I create an Envelope and send it?

An envelope in DocuSign is similar to a real-life envelope. It is a way to send documents to people that they may need to sign or add information to. You can create envelopes and send them to multiple people. Below are links to a couple tutorial videos, one is a quick overview, the second is an in depth look at how to use envelopes.

To create an Envelope and send it, follow the instructions from the section above, “How do I send a document that requires a signature?”

What are Templates and how do I use them?

Templates are great when you are frequently using the same or similar documents multiple times. There are two ways to use a template: choose a template and input the signer's information or upload a document and apply a recommended template to the document.

For a tutorial on how to use, create, and manage templates, watch this video.

If you have access to creating templates, jump to "Creating a Template" section**

How can I fix a mistake on a document I've already sent out?

Envelopes can be corrected once the document has been sent and is in progress. They cannot be corrected once the envelope has been completed by the recipient, but you can upload a new file with the corrections and resend it to the recipient.

Correcting a Mistake:

1. Select MANAGE
2. Select SENT box and open the file you wish to edit.

Select CORRECT to change details as needed and click CORRECT once again when done. A new email will be sent to the recipient.
